Enjoy The Ride ... It's Outta This World!

"Star Wars" it isn't. Entertaining it is. For an astro-nomical blast, set your sights skyward. Play Moon Shot,[™] one of Video King's[®] newest QuickShot games. The game's turbo-charged pace, fueled by high-voltage animation and dynamic pay tables, is one discovery players will likely "moon" over.

Playable on Video King's CHAMP-e,[™] Champion II[™] and TAB-e[™] tablets and fixed-base PowerTouch[™] units, these Class II, credit-based games are played with 24-pre-called numbers and scalable pay table that changes, based on a player's wagers. Pre-loaded with multiple player options, Moon Shot has been designed with easier-to-follow layouts and larger cards, making it even more fun to play. In fact, its theme was patterned after a highly successful pull-tab game, popular among players.

In a giant step for gaming, Video King has once again reached for the stars, implementing a new concept, which thrusts the game's entertainment factor through the stratosphere. Complete with disco dancers, space creatures, roving rovers, comets, rocket blasts, asteroids, fireworks, orbiting planets, yes – even a lunar cow and the Man in the Moon – each winning card now has its own animated sequence, and each game has 15 of these different animated scenes.

It's not rocket science to figure profits will soar and players – on a never-ending thrill quest – will set their course to seek more ... To begin their voyage, players simply touch Moon Shot's main screen to select the number of cards and at which price they wish to play, changeable each game. Once selected, the cards are visually "transformed," then prepped for lift off. To boost the level of excitement, the cards are actively daubed as the called balls are displayed, simulating the feel of live play. To gauge their level of action, players can click on the "Help & Options" button between games to view the pay table and change the pace of play.

Customizable for military, tribal and charitable organizations, Video King's QuickShot games – with comprehensive spend reports – are ideal for stand-alone games or before, during and after Bingo sessions. So, if you're ready for a more stellar experience, test ride Moon Shot. It's outta this world!
